Invisible Thread

“Promise me you’ll always remember you’re braver than you believe, stronger than you seem, and smarter than you think” – Christopher Robin to Winnie the Pooh. This is a quote my mom and I share when times are at their toughest. My mom has always been there for me and I have always been there for her. She’s my invisible thread and I am hers. An Invisible Thread by Laura Schroff is a beautiful true story about a woman’s love given to a hopeless, young boy. These two strangers formed a love only the work of God could have created. Their relationship started out as a simple act of kindness, but turned into a mother-son bond. Laura and Maurice share several bonds that my mom and I share. My mom and I have an invisible thread between us that is filled with memories and love. My mom has given me everything I have ever dreamed of. She has given me love, joy, and hope. While she showered me her gifts of love, I gave her a pal. My mom is not only my mom, but she is my best friend. I gave her a partner to watch our favorite British TV show. She gave me a friend to talk about my feelings with. The reason my mom is my invisible thread is because I can go back and forth listing everything my mom and I have done for each other. Through our ups and downs I now I can count on her. We don’t have to be strong and hold back tears together. She’s my shoulder to cry on and I am hers. She’s my Christopher Robin and I am her Winnie the Pooh. My mom will always be my invisible thread. No matter how far away I am in the future, our thread will stretch. Our thread will never break just like our love for each other.
